Feller Again To Head Ohio March of Dimes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians will be volunteer state chairman of the March of Dimes again next spring.

Last March the campaign which Feller headed resulted in the fourth highest collection in the nation—$2,950,000.

In announcing Feller's acceptance of the appointment Thursday night, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said "we are tremendously pleased to have Mr. Feller's leadership for another year."

Feller said he would ask help from his teammate Vic Wertz, who a year ago was a polio victim and now is completing one of the best seasons of his major league career.

Hamilton Home Project To Be Dedicated Today

CINCINNATI (AP)—A three-day dedicatory program opens today for Forest Park, a Hamilton County suburban development which has a mass plan calling for 1,000 homes, plus schools, shopping districts and recreational centers.

The project actually is a product of the depression.

It is on part of 5,930 acres acquired in northern Hamilton County in 1935 and 1936 by the U. S. Public Housing Administration for one of its "greenbelt" communities.

The village of Greenhills was built on part of the tract. Another 2,000 acres was turned over to Hamilton County for a park.

The remainder was bought by the Cincinnati Community Development Co. in 1952 for the development of Forest Park. More than 100 homes already have been built or are under construction in one of the six proposed neighborhoods of Forest Park. Plans call for homes in the development to be in the $14,000 to $60,000 price range.

Butler Grangers To Install Officers

Getting Man To Wear Wig Is Difficult

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A man and his hair are easily parted. Getting him to use a substitute is quite another matter, says a Toledoan who has a financial interest in hairline heights.

"It's getting better, but too many men still think it's silly to get a toupe or wig after they've lost their own hair," said Carl H. Blank, a hairgoods shop operator.

Blank, a 55-year-old German immigrant, made 175 toupees for men last year.

That, he noted not unhappily, was a 75-toupee increase over his male business in 1954.

A wig is a complete set of false hair. A toupee is a smaller piece pasted on the head to cover a bald spot.

As one might guess, the dainty hand of a woman usually is behind the first push a man gets into a toupee shop.

"Most of the time the wife phones and asks a few questions about do many men wear toupees," said Blank. "Then we get another call. Sometimes it's the wife again wanting to make an appointment for the husband. Sometimes it's the husband himself."

"Once you get to talk to the man, he's nervous about the procedure. He wants to know will everything be in private. Often he asks if he can come in at night. We have lot of night appointments."

When the potential customer finally appears, Blank escorts him to a curtained booth and tops him with a sample toupee as close as he can find to the proper shape and color.

"Now right here," said Blank, "is where you have got to use finesse. You don't high pressure or you scare the customer away."

"I don't even suggest that he order anything. I let him look in the mirror for a while, tell him how good he looks and suggest he go home and think it over."

"By then, the battle is won. The man isn't so timid anymore. It's hardly over more than a day or two before he calls and wants to know when can he get a fitting."

For the customer, however, the battle is just beginning. Doubts assail him as he anticipates the reaction of his friends to his new hairline.

"No matter how much better he looks; no matter how much younger, he dreads the moment someone will notice the improvement and mention it," Blank said. Blank himself has a fine head of rather unruly, brown hair. And it's all his. Or now, wait a minute...

4 Phone Supervisors Request Jury Trials

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Four Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. supervisors charged with assault and battery requested jury trials Thursday when arraigned in Municipal Court.

The charges are countersuits to charges filed by supervisors against five strikers. The offenses are alleged to have occurred Sept. 18 in a fight which took place while supervisors were repairing severed cables.

The fight resulted in the company halting telephone service here for three days.

Some 600 Communication Workers of America members have been striking against the company to retain benefits of their old contract which expired July 15.

How Do You Feel?

Two things about the two-party system are hard to remember while a campaign is in mid-passage:

1. That the system is founded on defense and attack, thereby giving voters a choice between the parties.

2. That the choice rests entirely with voters at the end of the campaign when everything pro and con is passed on in the privacy of voting booths—and the choice is free.

The campaign of 1956 now is halfway through its course.

The campaign machinery of both parties is running at top speed. The defenders are defending and the opposition is opposing. Voters are in the process of listening to the pros and cons and being swayed, theoretically, first one way, then the other, by the arguments.

An interesting parallel with the theme of Thomas E. Dewey's unsuccessful presidential campaigns is to be found in the basic premise of Adlai Stevenson's campaign.

Mr. Stevenson is trying to implant in voters' mind the same thing Mr. Dewey hammered on—that it is time for a change.

This did not prove to be a compelling argument when Mr. Dewey used it. We do not think it will be compelling in 1956.

In 1952, on the other hand, it was an overwhelming argument because a great mass of voters of both parties already had made up their minds that it was time for a change.

They were deeply dissatisfied with conditions in their federal government. There was a powerful popular reaction against the Truman administration.

This has no counterpart in 1956. Mr. Stevenson would like to make it appear that masses of his country men are seething with dissatisfaction and itching for a change to march to the polls in November and purge Washington of every trace of Dwight Eisenhower's influence.

We do not think he is having any luck with this line.

If voters are seething with dissatisfaction, they are doing a remarkable job of concealing how they feel. They are following the campaign with interest, yes. They are talking about politics. They are getting a lot of things off their chests, in the best tradition of the two-party system of politics.

But there is no evidence halfway through the campaign that they are waiting impatiently to march to the polls the first Tuesday in November to throw President Eisenhower and everything he stands for out of power.

Ohio Lags Behind

While most Ohioans continue to think education is a problem of paying the cost of buildings and a school system in their own school districts, a few are concentrating on a larger problem of education.

Ohio is chronically short of college facilities for its young people and will be acutely short within a decade. If all its colleges, both tax-supported and private, did everything within their conceivable means to expand, they would scarcely make a dent in the prospective demand for college education—more than 200 per cent greater than it is now.

A survey by the Ohio College Association has revealed the nature of the problem. It starts with a surprise for most Ohioans. Their state is not well equipped with colleges; it lags far behind the national average in college opportunity, in a class with states like Alabama, Arkansas and Louisiana.

It does not even support the colleges it has with vigor and generosity, although it is the birthplace of the program pursued by the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges for drawing funds from industry for annual educational expenses.

In any long-range expansion program, there is certain to be a disturbance of the traditional 50-50 balance between private and tax-supported backing for college education. Private colleges cannot keep up with tax-supported schools. This will be a dislocation so grave that some educators despair of keeping education out of political hands.

In the meantime, each day brings closer to college age the tidal wave of students who will swamp all existing facilities in the years ahead. It is impossible to believe colleges can be expanded fast enough to take care of them.

The only conceivable alternative is to become more selective than ever before in admitting would-be students to the privilege of higher education. The moral is blunt: Anyone planning to go to college in the next 10 years should start now to be a whiz kid.

Moonlight nights are when a youth's coat lapsels take on that school girl complexion.

'Best in the long run' is a pretty good slogan, except for the makers of women's hosiery.

Expediency Unmasked

President Hits Deceit In Democratic Farm Plan

Just about the most penetrating speech in many a campaign from the standpoint of clarity, persuasive argument and all-round effectiveness politically was delivered Tuesday night at Peoria, Ill., by President Eisenhower.

Short sentences, with crisply presented points that the listener could retain for future discussions, gave the address a distinctiveness in style that was reminiscent of FDR at his best in the famous "fireside" chats.

Apart from the sincerity and earnestness with which Mr. Eisenhower delivered his speech on television, there was a powerful force of simplicity in his argument. While not mentioning his opponent by name—a device of tact used to avoid seeming to be personal—Mr. Eisenhower pointed out the economic doctrines of Adlai Stevenson. Thus, in a striking passage, the President said:

"No farmer—Nor any citizen—will trust politicians who go to the cities to denounce inflation and come to the country to promise loans credit. Nor will any citizen trust any politician who promises expanded governmental expenditures, reduced taxes and—at the same time—a balanced budget."

MR. EISENHOWER thus summed up the whole Republican defense against the Democratic effort to sectionalize the issues of the campaign. For years the Democrats have been urging more and more spending of government money, and on the farm question they have been advocating a return to "rigid price supports."

This means that the farmer may plant as much as he pleases and the government, in effect, will guarantee to buy it from him at a fixed "parity" price. This also means using money from taxpayers in all parts of the country to keep on buying the surplus production, whatever it is.

Mr. Eisenhower boldly tackled in the center of the farm belt itself—supposed to be his weakest area from a vote-getting standpoint—the basic issue when he said:

"Rigidly fixing price supports at 90 per cent of parity without regard to supply conditions—and so encouraging surpluses that depress market prices—is, for the farmer, mockery and deceit."

The trouble there is that many of them, for political expediency's sake in bowing to misguided sentimentality locally, have already accepted the opposition argument.

This makes the President's aggressive exposition of economic truth all the more commendable. It was a brave speech.

"That kind of program compels drastic quotas, allotments, government regulation. It robs the farmer of a chance for full income parity. It is a program for politicians, not farmers."

SOMEbody in authority had to say this flatly and tell the farmers the facts about the "rigid price support" fallacy which has plagued the American economy for many years.

Few people, farmers or city folks, have realized that the federal government has bought surpluses amounting to the astonishing total of 9 billion dollars. This big sum of taxpayers' money is one of the reasons for budget deficits have prevented tax reduction from being enacted.

The present administration has fearlessly taken its position for the gradual removal of the surpluses and for a market in which supply and demand are permitted to operate.

This has been a difficult position to maintain politically, however, because it has been so easy for demagoguery to make it appear that the farmer must necessarily be the loser when rigid price supports are abandoned.

Actually, it is turning out the other way. Progress is being made toward the steady sale of the surpluses stored up from previous years, and at the same time prices appear to be getting progressively better.

The question is whether the farmer now wants to reverse the trend and change administrations. The big unknown factor today in American politics is whether sensible arguments in opposition to exaggeration and extravagant promises made only for political purposes will persuade the farm voters that the present program is really to their benefit.

MR. EISENHOWER has taken a most delicate issue directly to the people. He has presented the facts unequivocally—in answer to the cry of "farm depression."

Will the President, however, be able in the next few weeks to overcome the political effects of months and months of attack by his critics?

His own spokesmen and campaigners in the contests for congress will have to carry on for him.

The trouble there is that many of them, for political expediency's sake in bowing to misguided sentimentality locally, have already accepted the opposition argument.

This makes the President's aggressive exposition of economic truth all the more commendable. It was a brave speech.

One of the sillier quirks of human nature is to put off writing a letter for days then make an emergency out of it if no stamp is handy so it can be mailed immediately.

This is the time of the year to admit the good old summertime is not what it is cracked up to be even when it is ten times better than it was last year. People always feel better when the temperature drops.

After a lifetime of reading spiels describing political candidates, I find it hard to understand why so many officeholders turn out to be rascals. They all have the same sterling qualities before they are elected.

To my mind there is no more important conclusion to be reached about public finances these days than this one: When the people's money is being distributed among them, pursuant to law, public officials who fail to get a fair share are guilty of gross neglect of duty.

Because I have the same trouble with my glasses, I am glad Dwight Eisenhower has figured out how to keep his from slipping down his nose and having to be pushed back into place. It was a distracting gesture when he appeared on television.

Every time I make the mistake of taking safety on the highway for granted, some would-be assassin almost gets me, like the fellow who suddenly turned left in front of my workward-bound jalopy on the way to work this morning.

Nothing is more reassuring than the eventual delation of over-inflated political figures. It is the essence of popular government. Latest of the little men whose air has been let out is Harry Truman, who finally punctured himself beyond repair in the Democratic convention.

Just about the most penetrating speech in many a campaign from the standpoint of clarity, persuasive argument and all-round effectiveness politically was delivered Tuesday night at Peoria, Ill., by President Eisenhower.

Short sentences, with crisply presented points that the listener could retain for future discussions, gave the address a distinctiveness in style that was reminiscent of FDR at his best in the famous "fireside" chats.

Apart from the sincerity and earnestness with which Mr. Eisenhower delivered his speech on television, there was a powerful force of simplicity in his argument. While not mentioning his opponent by name—a device of tact used to avoid seeming to be personal—Mr. Eisenhower pointed out the economic doctrines of Adlai Stevenson. Thus, in a striking passage, the President said:

"No farmer—Nor any citizen—will trust politicians who go to the cities to denounce inflation and come to the country to promise loans credit. Nor will any citizen trust any politician who promises expanded governmental expenditures, reduced taxes and—at the same time—a balanced budget."

MR. EISENHOWER thus summed up the whole Republican defense against the Democratic effort to sectionalize the issues of the campaign. For years the Democrats have been urging more and more spending of government money, and on the farm question they have been advocating a return to "rigid price supports."

This means that the farmer may plant as much as he pleases and the government, in effect, will guarantee to buy it from him at a fixed "parity" price. This also means using money from taxpayers in all parts of the country to keep on buying the surplus production, whatever it is.

Mr. Eisenhower boldly tackled in the center of the farm belt itself—supposed to be his weakest area from a vote-getting standpoint—the basic issue when he said:

"Rigidly fixing price supports at 90 per cent of parity without regard to supply conditions—and so encouraging surpluses that depress market prices—is, for the farmer, mockery and deceit."

The trouble there is that many of them, for political expediency's sake in bowing to misguided sentimentality locally, have already accepted the opposition argument.

This makes the President's aggressive exposition of economic truth all the more commendable. It was a brave speech.

"That kind of program compels drastic quotas, allotments, government regulation. It robs the farmer of a chance for full income parity. It is a program for politicians, not farmers."

SOMEbody in authority had to say this flatly and tell the farmers the facts about the "rigid price support" fallacy which has plagued the American economy for many years.

Few people, farmers or city folks, have realized that the federal government has bought surpluses amounting to the astonishing total of 9 billion dollars. This big sum of taxpayers' money is one of the reasons for budget deficits have prevented tax reduction from being enacted.

The present administration has fearlessly taken its position for the gradual removal of the surpluses and for a market in which supply and demand are permitted to operate.

This has been a difficult position to maintain politically, however, because it has been so easy for demagoguery to make it appear that the farmer must necessarily be the loser when rigid price supports are abandoned.

Actually, it is turning out the other way. Progress is being made toward the steady sale of the surpluses stored up from previous years, and at the same time prices appear to be getting progressively better.

The question is whether the farmer now wants to reverse the trend and change administrations. The big unknown factor today in American politics is whether sensible arguments in opposition to exaggeration and extravagant promises made only for political purposes will persuade the farm voters that the present program is really to their benefit.

Chislers Now Preying On Aged

By WILLIAM RAPP

The sharpers and the chislers have found our older citizens.

Gold bricks and the Brooklyn Bridge are no longer their stock in trade. They are selling "health cures," rejuvenators and gimmicked insurance. These activities were spotlighted recently in an official report of the New York State Legislature.

Shady confidence men don't side up to their victims and offer them a "good thing." They boldly enter the channels of distribution and under cover of the thousands of legitimate products being sold to millions of Americans daily, palm off their shoddy wares on increasing numbers of the aged.

Their fears about health, their loneliness and their general low level of education make the senior citizens easy victims. The availability of Social Security and pension funds and the phenomenal growth in the number of over-65 men and women make them a tempting target. Last year, 14 million senior Americans had over 20 billion dollars to spend.

The files of Better Business Bureaus bulge with complaints about "disease killing" lamps which turn out to be rotating multicolored lights patterned on children's toys. Arthritis "cures," which sell equally well in Florida, Washington and Michigan, consist of plastic bags filled with sand or water bottles containing bits of slightly radioactive ore. Federal Food and Drug officials label such devices "entirely worthless."

Until recently the only protection against the relatively small number of individuals and companies peddling fake cures and bogus remedies has been the federal government.

The Federal Trade Commission and the United States Food and Drug Administration have moved against manufacturers of substandard vitamins, hormone preparations, special foods or drugs advertised to cure everything from cancer to a stroke.

But federal action is slow and by the time a dishonest manufacturer is stopped—court action sometimes consumes years—the chisler is off on another tack. In addition, many of these firms are small, operating only in a single state where they cannot be reached by federal action.

Now, however, the states are entering the picture. As they increasingly turn their attention to the problems of their aging citizens, state health and welfare authorities are becoming aware of the huge sums of money being milked from older people in moderate or downright poor circumstances.

In New York, the joint legislative committee on problems of the aging recently recommended that the Governor's Consumer Council turn its attention to coordinating the protective services of the state to keep the elderly from being defrauded. The American Medical Association, Federal Trade Commission and U. S. Food and Drug Administration have been invited to testify at the committee's forthcoming public hearings on how best to protect the aged consumer.

The committee's record—it got 22 pieces of major legislation dealing with the aged through the state legislature this year—assures that New York State's older residents will shortly have more and better legal protection.

Even without special legislation designed for them, the aged have legal recourse when they find that they have been victimized. In recent years the courts have rejected the ancient dictum of "buyer beware" and have ruled that the seller must stand by his promises, both direct and implied and must redeem worthless products.

The senior citizen who turns to his local community agency, legal aid society or town officers usually will be able to obtain assistance to recover his money.

There is more bar-room and hotel lobby fascination here with the National League pennant battle than the political battle launched at Gettysburg some miles down the road. The interest over the red hot pennant race makes the presidential race about as exciting as the news that it's always below freezing on Mars.

The wise men inside labor stopped long enough on their way over to the Dodge-Pirate game this week to smile and say that this political indifference makes it look bad for the Republicans.

Some coal union men tell you that Adlai Stevenson is going to take Pennsylvania. Add that to the South and Maine and where does it leave Dwight D. Eisenhower?

It adds up to what two of the top Republican strategists told the President at Gettysburg the other week. The odds are closer now.

There is more bar-room and hotel lobby fascination here with the National League pennant battle than the political battle launched at Gettysburg some miles down the road. The interest over the red hot pennant race makes the presidential race about as exciting as the news that it's always below freezing on Mars.

THE LABOR MEN are beginning to sense a chance for victory and are suddenly swinging into the battle, although many of them originally attended to sit hings out.

Here "on the road," you find there's been only one early starter in labor's fight for Adlai Stevenson and the Democrats—and it will take the other union chiefs some time to catch up with Walter Reuther's campaign machine.

They're trying. But the auto union leader and his bright specialists in reaching the people are at least two movies up on them, for example.

One of these films is beginning to saturate the countryside like a good Hollywood "sleeper." It was produced for the auto workers and trounces the Republicans as you might expect from any comment, celluloid or live, by Walter and his people.

Officially the union describes it as a "thirteen and a half minute dramatic documentary featuring Guy Nunn, UAW television and radio commentator."

IN A LETTER from the union's national headquarters to "International Representatives, presidents, of Local Unions, chairmen of Political Action Committees and chairmen of Education Committees," UAW's educational director, Brendan Sexton, says:

"The movie . . . should serve to testify at the committee's forthcoming public hearings on how best to protect the aged consumer."

To Appeal Voting Machine Ruling

Court Rules 1 Machine Needed for 100 Voters

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Montgomery County election officials appeared today to appeal an appellate court ruling that each voting machine in the county be restricted to 100 persons.

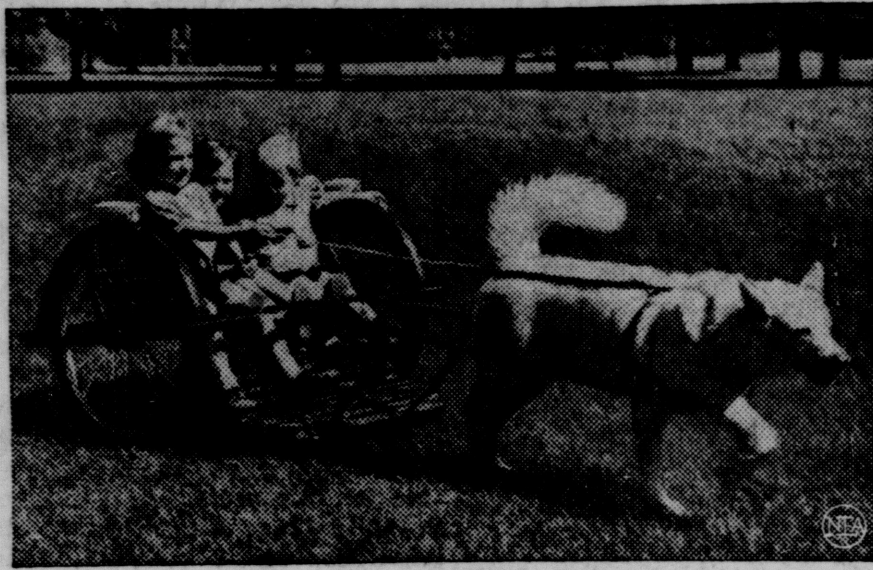

The court decision could have statewide repercussions.

Howard G. Young, Montgomery County GOP chairman and member of the election board, said:

"The whole business looks to me like a new effort on the part of the Democrats to discredit voting machines. There's nothing wrong with machines. Many more than 100 persons can and have used them."

He said he would press for an immediate appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The Second District Court of Appeals ruled unanimously Thursday that the Montgomery County Board of Elections must furnish at least one voting machine for each 100 registered voters — or supply paper ballots as an alternative method of voting.

Democrats here have criticized voting machines as discouraging persons from voting because they cannot get away from work long enough to wait their turn to use the machines.

However, Pierce Wood, Democratic member of the election board said: "It is my present inclination to abstain from voting on an appeal. This should not become a political issue."

The court decision, unless its effectiveness is delayed by an appeal to the Supreme Court, apparently would affect all Ohio counties which use voting machines. Most counties are far below the 1-to-100 ratio of machines to registered voters.

The ruling would not affect Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) which has the heaviest vote of any county in the state, said Ray C. Miller, that county's board of elections clerk.

"The county always has figured it would take two voting machines for 350 voters," he said. "Years ago we figured it would take 4,500 machines for the whole county. Under the ruling, we would need three voting machines for each precinct."

Franklin County (Columbus) election officials said the ruling, if it sticks, would force some wards to return to paper ballots as machines were withdrawn. They said cost would be so prohibitive as to stop a program which has equipped 17 of 19 city wards there.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said in Cincinnati the court decision creates "a state of confusion" in plans for the general election Nov. 6.

"This ruling makes it almost impossible for urban cities to hold an election at this late date because of arrangements already made," Brown said.

The action to compel the Montgomery County board to furnish adequate voting facilities, as defined by state law, was brought by Woodrow Spencer, a Democratic precinct committeeman.

Gastall, a former Boston University athlete, disappeared last Thursday evening after taking off from Easton, Md., in a small aircraft.

His body was found Tuesday. The plane has not been located.

The GOP candidate for re-election was scheduled to leave the airport at 2:40 p. m. for West Virginia.

8-Million Nuclear Plant OKd For Piqua

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Thursday authorized contract negotiations for an eight-million-dollar nuclear power plant at Piqua, Ohio.

Under the proposal, the commission would finance the reactor, costing $4,014,400, and the city of Piqua would furnish other facilities including land and buildings at a cost of $3,955,000.

Other provisions call for the AEC to provide post-construction research and development assistance up to $3,600,000.

The project is one of seven proposed in response to the AEC's second appeal to American industry to use its resources in the development of nuclear power. Four have been approved for contract negotiations and three others are still under AEC consideration.

The Piqua proposal calls for a 12,500 kilowatt reactor plant using circulating organic fluid (the hydrocarbon terphenyl) as moderator and coolant, and slightly enriched uranium as fuel.

North American Aviation, Inc., design agent for the city of Piqua, will develop reactor components, including a fuel element, for the project.

Mary Mae Bohling Becomes Bride Of Harry Archer Jr.

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening at the Leroy Methodist Church, Mary Mae Bohling and Harry Archer Jr. exchanged wedding vows before Rev. Seymour Hultford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Bohling of RD

4, Crown Point, Ind., and the bridegroom is the son of H. Ross Archer of Crown Point and Mrs. Helen Archer of Leetonia.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin. Tapering sleeves and a scooped neckline were featured on the fitted bodice, and the skirt was fashioned of tiers of lace and tulle.

A veil of silk illusion was caught to a tiara of seed pearls, and she wore matching pearl earrings and necklace, gifts of the bridegroom. With her single white orchid she carried a small white Bible.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Ann Bohling, sister of the bride, wore a peacock blue silk crystaletta gown designed with an empire waistline and a full skirt that had a large bow at the back with streamers extending to the floor. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mrs. Vernon Segert of Crown Point was the bridesmaid, and Patricia Fauser, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Both wore dresses of shrimp hued crystaletta over taffeta, styled identically to the honor maid's gown, and bouquets of yellow carnations.

Attending the bridegroom were Ronald Smith, best man, and Rush Banton, groomsmen, both of Crown Point. Ushers were Ronald Campbell of Hub City and Jack Stull of Cedar Lake.

When Mr. and Mrs. Archer returned from a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains, they will live at 708 E. 41st Ave., Crown Point.

Double Treat For Small Girls

Most mothers (and doting relatives) like the way a small girl looks in a jumper dress but dislike the way the blouse and jumper tend to separate once the small girl starts jumping.

In the fall collection of the designer Celeste, this problem has been solved in two ways. The first is the jumper to be worn with a blouse that's attached to its own flared petticoat. Blouse and petticoat make up a dress which may be worn alone.

The second version is a jumper-dress. This is a jumper worn over a little dress in contrasting color. The dress can be worn separately or with other things. Both combinations make for a neat, tidy look.

We show (left) the suspender dress in a sheer, striped, imported wool over its own separate petticoat. Blouse is a broadcloth and is attached to a ruffled petticoat. Pocket dress (right) is in cotton broadcloth. Graduated pockets are lined and bound with baby check gingham. Gingham is used as detailing on the linen collar and cuffs.

Hunt Gunman's Getaway Car

Four Get $20,000 In Chesterland Bank

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—A search for the getaway car used in a $20,000 bank robbery in Chesterland, Geauga County, centered today in the Chesterland area.

Four heavily armed masked gunmen Thursday afternoon looted the Chesterland Branch of the First National Bank of Burton and were seen fleeing eastward in a 1955 green Ford.

Gauga County Sheriff E. John Phelps said he believed the gunmen have abandoned the car in the Chesterland area and continued their flight on foot or in another car.

FBI agents and the State Highway Patrol are aiding the sheriff's office in the search. Shortly after the holdup, the sheriff in one airplane and an FBI agent in another spent an hour and a half flying over the territory.

The FBI hopes to find fingerprints on the car.

The holdup men were seen fleeing east on Ohio 32, which runs through the tiny village of Chesterland, southeast of here. Two teenage boys said they chased a 1955 green Ford along that highway for about 10 miles, but could not get close enough to read the license plates.

A 1955 green Ford was stolen from Chesterland's municipal parking lot near downtown Lakewood Thursday morning, and police believe it was used in the robbery.

The holdup had all the marks of careful planning. At 2:30 p.m., not long before closing time, the four men, wearing blue-striped coveralls and hidden by flesh-colored rubber masks, entered the bank and shouted:

"Hands up! This is a holdup."

Eight minutes later, Robert W. Cummings, bank manager, estimated, they were on their way with $8,000 grabbed from the tellers' windows and shoved into a paper shopping bag and about $12,000 from a vault they forced Cummings to open.

There were six bank employees and three customers in the building. They were covered by pistols and herded into a vault. They were locked in for only five minutes after the gunmen left.

Mrs. Ann Lincks, a bank employee, said the ringleader, about six-foot-two, leaped over a five-foot counter to get at the teller cash boxes. She said he asked her to help him stuff the money into the sack.

"I was shaking with fright," Mrs. Lincks said. "And he said: 'For gosh sakes, don't faint now. It's only money and it's insured anyway.'"

At the same time, the London Express said Moscow reports "indicate that the Stalinists are growing stronger. Some sources even say Khrushchev is already caught up in a life-or-death struggle."

Western diplomatic sources in Vienna said they had no confirmation of Kurier's interpretation of the Tito visit, but they said they did have solid information that Khrushchev was in trouble because of his satellite policy.

Tito's rush trip to the Crimea was reported from Belgrade Thursday as a vacation.

Word that Tito and Khrushchev had reached Yalta - site of the last World War II meetings between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin - came from Belgrade radio.

An earlier Moscow radio broadcast reported they had arrived in Sevastopol from Yugoslavia and then "journeyed to the south coast of the Crimea where they will be resting."

The Tito-Khrushchev party left Belgrade in a surprise move early Thursday. The Yugoslav group included Tito's wife Jovanka, Vice President Alexander Rankovic and Djuro Pucar, chairman of the state of Bosnia-Herzegovina and a member of the Yugoslav Communist party Politburo.

With Khrushchev were the Ukrainian Communist party head, Alexei Kirichenko, and the Soviet Union's top woman Communist, Mrs. Ekaterina Furseva.

Khrushchev flew to Belgrade Sept. 19 for an equally surprising visit billed officially as a holiday.

$2 Daily Pay Hike Reported Set for Miners

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secret negotiations reportedly have brought agreement on a new $2 daily wage increase and additional vacation pay for many of the nation's coal miners.

There had been no prior announcement even that negotiations were under way between President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and Edward G. Fox, new head of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. In the past, agreements between the two groups have set the pattern for the soft coal industry.

Formal announcement that they have agreed on terms of a new contract is expected next Tuesday, when the independent UMW opens its convention in Cincinnati.

UMW officials declined to comment on the report, but sources close to the coal industry said Lewis and Fox already have initiated a memorandum of understanding.

It reportedly calls for the same two-step increase given the miners last year—a raise of $1.20 a day effective Oct. 1 and an additional 80 cents effective next April 1. The miners' present basic daily wage is $20.25.

Ohio Exceeds U. S. Average Old Age Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio exceeded the national average in old age pension payments in July, the Social Security Administration reported today.

Ohio's average payment that month—including both state and federal funds—was $60.42 compared with the national average of $55. Colorado led all states with an average payment of $91.88.

Social security officials said they expect all state old age pension payments to increase an average of about $5 a month beginning in October.

A law increases the federal contribution starting next month. In July the federal government contributed $20 of the first $25 in individual payments, and then matched the states on a 50-50 basis on payments up to $60. Payments in excess of $60 came entirely in state money.

Beginning Oct. 1, the government will contribute 25 of the first $30 and then 50 per cent of payments up to $60.

ordered them interned at the 5th Army Division headquarters near Salta.

They denounced the regime of Bolivian President Hernan Siles Zuazo and described as phony the amnesty proclaimed by the government before this year's presidential election.

Lt. Col. Andres Saucedo Lanza, former Bolivian military attaché in Chile who helped plot the escape, said he and many others had returned to Bolivia after the amnesty proclamation only to be arrested. Another of the group, 22-year-old Mario Ayala, of the newspaper Clarin of Santa Cruz, said there was no press freedom in Bolivia.

He accused Stevenson before a crowd of 5,700 in the National Guard Armory of "political quackery" and of having adopted the policies of "Harry Truman economically and of Dean Acheson politically."

The threat to peace and freedom remains grave, he said, and "the ship of state must be piloted through some stormy waters in the months and years ahead. If we are to come through safely we should not take the risk of putting our fate in the hands of a pilot who may be a perfectly well-intentioned man, who had read a lot of books on how to run a ship, but who has never had the experience of guiding a great ship through a stormy sea."

The voters' choice, he declared, boils down to a determination of whether "we go forward with Eisenhower or back to the policies of the Truman regime."

Gunman Nabbed After Holdup

Picked Up On Bus For $10,104 Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP)—A gunman who detectives said admitted holding up the Lincoln Money Exchange here, was returned Thursday night from Bellevue, Ohio, where officers interrupted his getaway on a Greyhound bus bound from Akron to Toledo.

Walter Finkler, chief of police at Bellevue, and State Highway Patrolman Albert Lelakus, said they stopped the bus after a police radio alert from Norwalk, and removed Charles Fondren, 25, of Cleveland.

Fondren, they said, carried $2,900 in a suitcase. He had a gun but offered no resistance.

Manager Alfred Grossberger, 47, of Cleveland Heights, told police $10,104 was stolen in Thursday's holdup. Grossberger and two women employees were herded into a basement room while the long gunman took the money from the cash drawer of Miss Marie Hartwick, cashier.

The break that led to Fondren's arrest was a loose hub cap on an automobile which sped away from the holdup scene. A woman bystander jotted down the license number of the car when it screeched away and the hub cap bounced off.

Detectives located the car's owner, Reginald A. Doniver, 30, who admitted driving Fondren to Akron for $60. Doniver told the officers he knew Fondren only as "big head," and said Fondren came here from Tennessee "a couple of weeks ago."

Doniver said he drove Fondren to the money exchange "to cash a paycheck" and didn't know of the holdup plans. He said that when he left Fondren in Akron the gunman boarded a Greyhound bus to Chicago. The bus had been gone about two hours and covered some 80 miles when the police alert caught up with it.

Dodgers, Braves Begin Final Battle For Pennant Tonight

Dodgers Must Bank On Cards

3 Brave Wins In Row Would Settle Race

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This is it. Forget the past 151 games in the National League season. It's Milwaukee at St. Louis for three, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn for three—and all of them, or any one of 'em, could decide the pennant.

Milwaukee's Braves, holding the lead by one game, need a sweep against the Cards to nail it without worrying about what Brooklyn does.

"It's Bob Buhl tonight, Warren Spahn Saturday night," says Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "—and the whole damn bunch on Sunday!"

The Dodgers, supremely confident all season that they would catch the Braves and repeat as champions, no longer can do it alone. The best they can do is sweep the Pirates and pray St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves. That would leave it a tie—calling for a best-of-three playoff beginning Monday in Brooklyn.

Manager Walt Alton sees his Dodger chances like this:

"We've got to have help. If the Cards win one, we'll be all right. We haven't any reason to give up yet," but he added:

"I'm not worried about the Cardinals easing up. The thing that worries me is that we've looked pretty lousy lately."

"Lousy" describes a 2-4 record in the last six games—a slump that dumped the Brooks out of the lead.

Cincinnati's chances are more than slim. The Redlegs, fooling everyone and even themselves by hanging on to the final three days of the season, need a sweep of their two games with Chicago beginning Saturday—and three defeats by Milwaukee and at least two defeats by Brooklyn to hope for a tie.

The Braves, a 1-3 favorite to take the flag (although the same money man will lay you 12 to 5 they don't, have picked Buhl, not effective of late, and Spahn, a 20-game winner who has a 44-34 life time edge on the Cards.

Buhl, 28 and a righthander, is 18-3 for the season. But he hasn't pitched a complete game since August 30 (a 1-1 tie with Pittsburgh) and is only 2-3 for the month, winning one in relief against the Dodgers. He's 1-1 vs St. Louis, giving nine hits and three earned runs in 17 innings. Of the 17 home runs Buhl has allowed, only one was socked by a Cardinal — a pinch-hit job by Rocky Nelson that beat the Braves.

Cardinal Manager Fred Hutchinson, figuring "We'll give them a tumble," has named righthander Tom Poholsky for tonight's opener. Poholsky is 9-14 for the season, 2-2 vs Milwaukee with one complete game in five starts against the Braves, allowing 40 hits (three homers) and 10 earned runs in 38 innings.

He's tougher than his over-all record looks. Against Brooklyn, for instance, he was 1-5 — but a whopping 12 of the Brooks' runs against him were unearned. Without the poor fielding, he would have had a 4-2 record against the Dodgers.

It's Herm Wehmeier and probable Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell for the Cardinals Saturday and Sunday.

While the Braves are 12-7 for the season against fourth-place St. Louis, Brooklyn's world champs are only 10-9 against the sixth-place Pirates. And they'll be running up against Bob Friend again tonight. The 25-year-old righthander, the All-Star Game winner, is 17-16 for the year — with a 4-1 edge on the Dodgers, whom he's whipped with a three-hitter and a two-hitter this season.

Manager Bobby Bragan says it's Ronnie Kline Saturday and Vern Law Sunday — "but Friend will be back either in relief or as a possible starter again on Sunday."

Alton is going with Roger Craig, a young righthander who now is only 12-11 after failing to complete his last 13 starts. He's 2-2 vs Pittsburgh.

Saturday it's Sal Maglie, who no-hit Philadelphia in his last start, and Sunday it's Don Newcombe.

Oh yes, the American League. The New York Yankees, ready to hit the road or the subway for Wednesday's scheduled World Series opener, are at home to Boston tonight, Detroit's at Cleveland, Chicago at Kansas City and Baltimore at Washington.

IMPRESSES COACHES

Jim Seventh, a graduate of Leontia High School where he started in football, is one of the newcomers on the Youngstown University football team who has impressed the Penguin coaches.

Los Angeles—Reuben Hernandez, 169, Los Angeles, knocked out Eddie Jenkins, 167, Los Angeles, 8.

AUTOGRAPHED TURTLE — A box turtle found by Warren White of Lisbon in the hills southwest of Lisbon has its underside covered with scratched-in initials. One of the dates indicates the turtle is over 51 years old.

Rufus Lide, Columbiana County game protector, is shown in the picture above with the turtle. The date, '05, can be seen at the lower left of the turtle's underside; Above that are the initials JFC. Lide assumes the date stands for 1905.

On another portion of the turtle's hard shell are the initials HHC, along with '09. Other initials, which can still be seen, are RS and ALD.

Box turtles are much in evidence in this area and many seen by residents are much larger in size.

After showing the turtle to Knox School science classes Thursday, Lide turned it loose in the woods adjoining the school.

Street Sweeping Job Hinges on Potters' Game

Either East Liverpool or New Philadelphia will get a high-class street sweeping job as a result of tonight's game between the Potters and the Quakers at Patterson Field in East Liverpool.

As a result of a neighborly bet, Safety - Service Director William C. Heasley of East Liverpool will sweep New Philly's main street if East Liverpool is defeated. And Mayor A. Frederick Schneider and Service Director Michael E. Fronz of New Philadelphia are pledged to sweep one of East Liverpool's main streets if the Potters come out on top.

The bet was made as the result of football talk that cropped up between the East Liverpool and New Philly officials when they lunched together during the annual meeting of the Ohio Municipal League last week at Columbus.

Babe Zaharias Once Struck Out Joe DiMaggio In Yankee Park

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Second of a Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Before she was struck down by cancer, Babe Didrikson Zaharias established herself as the greatest woman athlete of all-time, but her greatest pride didn't come from her Olympic medals and myriad championships.

"I've never seen a crossword puzzle I couldn't work in 30 minutes," she used to boast, but with her, it never had the ring of a brag.

She could type 80 words a minute, whip up a batch of biscuits on a moment's notice and cook Swedish meatballs—her specialty—which would melt in your mouth. She once threw a baseball 296 feet and struck out the great Joe DiMaggio.

The latter occasion was at Yankee Stadium where The Babe was hired to give a golf demonstration. She decided she'd like to work out with the team.

Someone suggested she should pitch to Joe DiMaggio. The Yankee Clipper, a retiring sort, demurred. Finally he was forced into it and, with jaw clamped, he went to bat determined to pole one out of the park.

He fouled off two pitches and on the third, The Babe shot a fast one past DiMag's ear. DiMag fell back, swinging his bat in defense. It was called a strikeout.

Once at an outdoor show in Boston she took on Ted Williams and ex-heavyweight champ Jack Sharkey in a fly-casting contest. The Babe won with unerring marksmanship and later remarked: "All that Williams can do is bat."

She had a natural aptitude for sports excellence. She broke 100 the first time she ever played golf, once shot a 64 on a regulation 18-hole course. She tried to get into the men's national open golf tournament but was refused.

The Babe once worked out with the Southern Methodist University football team and awed the athletes with her left-footed kicking. She was good enough at billiards to make a cross-country tour.

Back in 1931 an enterprising promoter cooked up the idea of a boxing match between Miss Didrikson and the brother of Young Spike Briggs he could not be the "fiery, aggressive" type of skipper the new owners say they want.

Most of the talk about Harris' successor centered around Jack Tighe, the club's 43-year-old first base coach who makes no secret about a desire to manage the Tigers.

Tiger officials asked permission to talk with Fred Hutchinson, former Tiger pilot who has a year to go on a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Birdie Tebbetts, one-time Detroit catcher who is "in solid" as manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The new owners say they plan no announcement until after the World Series. Meanwhile the names of Hutchinson and Tebbetts, along with those of Billy Hitchcock, Leo Durocher, Mickey Cochrane, Paul Richards, George Kell, Al Lopez, Eddie Stanky and Mel Ott, keep coming up.

43,000 Expected At Pitt-Syracuse Game

PITTSBURGH — Syracuse University and Pitt, two national powers, meet in one of the top games of the day Saturday at Pitt Stadium. An estimated crowd of 43,000 is expected to be on hand for the kickoff at 1:30 p.m. (EDT).

Pitt leads in the series, 7-2-2, winning last year at Syracuse with a second half rally, 22-12.

Both elevens won their opening games but Syracuse was much more impressive in whipping high-ranking Maryland, 26-12, while Pitt converted two third period fumbles into quick touchdowns to edge lightly-regarded West Virginia 14-13.

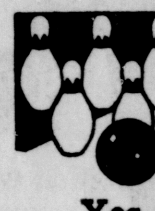

All-American candidate Jim Brown, senior left half for Syracuse, gained more ground than the entire Maryland team. He rushed for 154 yards including a 78 yard jaunt. The Terps gained only 153 while the Panther eleven accumulated 69 yards, 84 yards less than Brown did. Brown averaged 8.5 yards per run.

In the air, the Orangemen gained 99 yards while the Pitts netted just 27. Syracuse completed seven of nine passes while Pitt completed two of seven for 27 yards. On the defensive side, Pitt yielded 146 yards rushing and 93 passing while Syracuse gave-up 153 on the ground but only 25 through the air.

Philadelphia — Cortez Jackson, 142½, Philadelphia, outpointed Frankie Alotta, 150½, Allentown, Pa., 8.

Freshmen Lose Opener To E. Liverpool 20-19

The Salem High School freshman football team lost their season opener to the East Liverpool freshmen Thursday afternoon at East Liverpool 20-19.

All the scoring was done in the second and third quarters.

In the second quarter Anthony Petrucci blocked an East Liverpool punt and recovered in the end zone for Salem's first touchdown. The try for the extra point was missed, and Salem led 6-0.

East Liverpool came right back scoring on a 50-yard run by Bob McCall. Dick Cline ran the extra point, giving the Potters a 7-6 lead.

Several plays later Liverpool scored off right tackle on a 40-yard run by Harry Roach. The extra point try failed, and East Liverpool led 13-6.

Salem got rolling again as Fred Phillips ran for six yards off tackle for a touchdown. Powell Schmauch then tied score 13-13, running over the extra point.

East Liverpool scored their winning points late in the period, tallying on a 30-yard run off the right side by Cline. The extra point was added by Cline to make the score 20-13.

In the third quarter Salem marched 60 yards to a TD, Schmauch scoring from the two-yard line. The extra point try was missed. Neither team could move the ball in the final period.

Sooners Face North Carolina On Saturday

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press

Football coach Jim Tatum gets his second chance of 1956 to play "ole man upset" when his North Carolina Tarheels meet defending national champion Oklahoma Sooners who are primed and ready to lay claim to a second national championship and Notre Dame's untarnished record of 39 victories without defeat.

Just over nine months later, Tatum, now drawing his diagrams for his alma mater, North Carolina, finds himself sending his once-beaten Tarheels against the Sooners who are primed and ready to lay claim to a second national championship and Notre Dame's untarnished record of 39 victories without defeat.

Elsewhere in the nation, many of the top teams are also opening their schedules this weekend.

Friday night South Carolina, already winner of two games, will take on one of the country's top independent, Miami, while on the west coast Southern California, rated No. 6 in the weekly Associated Press poll clashes with Oregon State.

Saturday's schedule provides a multitude of top games with national interest centered at Dallas where upstart Southern Methodist, upset conqueror of Notre Dame and the No. 5 team in the nation plays host to the Engineers from Georgia Tech. Tech holds a triumph over Kentucky this season and is presently runner up to Oklahoma for national honors.

The nation's current No. 3 team, Michigan State, opens its season at Palo Alto where Stanford's Indians are supposed to be the cream left on the Coast after the recent scandals.

The East will be treated to the formal "first year" of the Ivy League as Columbia and Brown meet at Baker Field in New York. Cornell goes outside the loop to meet highly-rated Colgate and Dartmouth meets New Hampshire. Yale plays Connecticut.

But the top Eastern game promises to be at Pittsburgh where Syracuse, No. 7 nationally, takes on No. 10 Pittsburgh.

In other games, Army should open its season on a winning note against weak Virginia Military while Navy should do the same with William & Mary.

In the South Mississippi, No. 9, takes on Kentucky and Duke, smarting from its opening day loss, meets Virginia. Penn and Penn State continue their rivalry in the East and Ohio State plays Nebraska. Illinois opens against California and Indiana and Iowa open their Big Ten season. Michigan clashes with the depleted forces of UCLA.

Marquette battles Wisconsin at Madison, Minnesota meets Washington at Seattle and Iowa State elashes with Northwestern.

Texas Christian ranked fourth nationally is the only top ten team idle.

Robinson, Fullmer To Box For Title

NEW YORK (AP)—With the Ray Robinson-Gene Fullmer middleweight title fight all set for Dec. 12 in New York, promoter Jim Norris is expected to announce within the next few days the signing of Archie Moore and Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight championship in Chicago, Nov. 30.

Norris, president of the far flung International Boxing Club, wound up four months of negotiations with Robinson Thursday by getting the 36-year-old champion to agree to risk his crown against the 25-year-old Fullmer at Madison Square Garden. Broadway bookmakers made it an even fight — 6-5 and take your pick.

As for the heavyweights, Norris said "we're agreed on most everything but the site. Moore wants it in Los Angeles and Patterson wants it in New York. I prefer Chicago."

Sugar Ray, a shrewd bargainer, got everything but the Garden fixtures for agreeing to take on the strong, aggressive Fullmer. Ray will get 47 1/2 per cent of the gate — which Norris predicted would be a $200,000 sellout at $5 to $30 prices — and 60 per cent of the $100,000 radio-TV package. Fullmer will get 12 1/2 per cent of the gate and nothing for radio-TV. Robinson gets both fighters' share of the air receipts.

U. S.-Italy Davis Cup Matches Open Today

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — A pulled tendon, an angry Latin and a gal named Flossie provided the main ingredients of the United States-Italy Davis Cup inter-zone tennis matches opening today.

The pulled tendon—in his right foot—belonged to Ham Richardson of Westfield, N. J., who faced Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli in the first of two singles matches at the West Side Tennis club. Starting time was 12:30 p.m. EST.

The angry Latin was little Giuseppe Merlo, Italy's top-ranked player who was chagrined when towering Orlando Sirola was named to meet America's Vic Seixas in the second duel.

"I've been beating both Sirola and Pietrangeli in practice," Merlo, a dogged retriever who hits at balls with a choke-grip and two-fisted backhand, complained. "I don't know why I was left off."

Flossie's role was that of the weather. The backlash of the southern hurricane meeting a cold front from Canada promised general rain and high winds throughout the day. The gate for the important tennis test already has been hurt by interest in the National League baseball race.

Richardson pulled up lame Thursday from a foot injury he's been hiding for three days. He went to the doctor, got his foot taped and then, after a workout, announced he could play.

'Chicken Shoot' Set At Salem Hunting Club

A "chicken shoot" has been scheduled for Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Salem Hunting Club range. All area marksmen are invited to compete.

Mrs. James Ivan of Salem won first prize in the .22 caliber rifle shoot Sunday when the women competed with the men.

Dave Kirby of Salem was second; Lowell Brandt of Winona was third. Special awards went to Robert Moncrief of Salem and Raymond Brandt.

THREE OF A KIND — For the third time in the last six years the Cleveland Indians will wind up the season with three 20-game winners. Sophomore southpaw Herb Score, center, joined Bob Lemon, left, and Early Wynn in the charmed circle as he posted an 8-4 victory over Kansas City in Cleveland. Score and Wynn have identical 20-0 records; Lemon stands 20-14.

Buhl Named To Hurl For Braves Tonight

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Milwaukee's bright pennant hopes tonight rest on Bob Buhl, a crewcut with a blazing fast ball, and the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals who have lost seven of their last eight games.

"We've still got to win them all," said Manager Fred Haney of the Braves. "We can't count on Brooklyn losing any more."

The Braves, leading the Dodgers by one full game in the tight National League race, can clinch a tie by winning two of three from the Cardinals, even if Brooklyn wins all three of its games from Pittsburgh.

That one-game lead could disappear overnight or the Braves could be assured of a tie, depending on the outcome of the games at Busch Stadium and Ebbets Field.

"We're going to do our best to knock them off," said Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cardinals who can not move up or down from fourth place, no matter what happens.

Frank Lané, the Cards' general manager, joked with reporters who are following the Braves at Thursday's Milwaukee workout.

"I asked Buzzy Bavasi (Dodger vice president) for 50 more World Series tickets," he said. "I told him we'd repay by knocking off Milwaukee three times. Buzzy answered that he'd give us the whole grandstand if we beat the Braves. He wasn't being generous because he has an empty grandstand to give away unless we take care of Milwaukee."

The Braves appeared free and easy as they swung for the fences in batting practice after a one-day vacation. Most of the players said they found it harder to sit around the hotel than playing ball games.

The sight of Busch Stadium was a tonic to most of the Braves who hit better in this park than they do at home. The club batting average at St. Louis is .278 as compared to their season-long mark of .260.

Eddie Mathews, the powerful lefthanded home run threat, has hit .338 against St. Louis. Johnny Logan has a .336 average against the Cards and Jack Dittmer .429.

To the contrary, the Cards have found Milwaukee pitching real tough.

With a team average against Milwaukee of only .242, the figures show Stan Musial at .250 as compared with his over-all mark of .314.

Buhl (18-8) is 1-1 against the Cards for the year.

Tom Poholsky (9-14) the Cardinal pitcher has a 2-2 mark against the Braves including a 5-1 victory over Gene Conley in a complete game.

On the season series, Milwaukee owns a 12-7 edge and has a 5-3 margin at Busch Stadium.

Boyd 8-5 Favorite Over Joey Giardello

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lanky Bobby Boyd of Chicago is an 8-5 favorite to extend his winning string to 10 tonight in a 10-rounder against Joey Giardello of Philadelphia at the arena.

The middleweight scrap will be carried nationally on NBC radio and TV, starting at 9 p.m., eastern standard time.

For Giardello, 26, twice outpointed by Charlie Cotton for the only losses in his last 14 fights, tonight's bout is "one that I just got to win."

It's just as important to the middleweight ambitions of Boyd, who moved into the No. 2 spot ahead of Joey after Giardello's losses to Cotton.

Boyd and Giardello each has 22 knockouts to his credit, although the Philadelphia battler has been in about twice as many fights. Boyd has won 40, lost six and had two draws; while Giardello has won 61, lost 13 and drawn in five.

Bob Lemon To Oppose Frank Lary Tonight

Home Town Pays Tribute To Babe Zaharias

By MAX B. SKELTON

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—A hometown Babe Didrikson Zaharias never forgot paid final tribute today to the famous athlete who lost her courageous three-year battle against cancer.

It was nearly a quarter of a century ago that the 42-year-old Babe left this southeast Texas oil refining center to gain fame and fortune in the sports world, first in basketball, then track and field, the 1932 Olympics and golf.

The Babe returned home the last time at mid-afternoon Thursday, some nine hours after death came while she slept peacefully in John Sealy Hospital at Galveston.

Only relatives viewed the body Thursday night at Broussard Mortuary but a hundred or more hometown friends called and signed the guest register.

The body was to be taken to Bethlehem Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. today. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. C. A. Roytek, the pastor, this afternoon.

George Zaharias, husband of the famous Babe, and relatives will escort the body to Houston Saturday for cremation, returning for private graveside rites in the late afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mrs. Zaharias had known for well over a year that she could not win her fight against cancer but her last words to Zaharias early yesterday were "I ain't gonna die, Honey."

Through her travels about the world, the Babe referred to Beaumont as her hometown. She was born at nearby Port Arthur June 26, 1914, but her parents moved when she was a youngster.

Boosters To Send Team To OSU Game

The Salem Boosters Club met at the Memorial Building last night at 7:30 p.m. and voted to send the Salem football team to the Ohio State University-Penn State football game Oct. 20th.

Coach Earle Bruce showed movies of last week's game played at Ravenna. He discussed the team's strong and weak points and told the members what they might expect to see in this Saturday night's game at Timken.

Wrigley Calls Meeting On Improving Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Philip K. Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs, plans to call a meeting of his board of directors after the World Series to see what can be done about improving the club, a second division finisher for the last 10 years.

"We are not going to be stampeded into making any changes and we are not going to make any changes just for the sake of making a change," said Wrigley. Wrigley said Thursday that the positions of vice president Clarence Rowland, personnel director Wild Matthews, business manager James Gallagher and field manager Stan Hack will not be the only ones discussed.

"No one has anything nailed down, and that goes for those in the front office, middle office and back office. That goes for me, too. Yes, if I can find a better man to be president of the Cubs, I'll suggest a new president."

The Daffy Season

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The daffy season is in full swing!

One corporation paved a Manhattan street with soap this week, another made a nationwide offer to buy male beards at $5,000 an ounce.

The two events highlighted a fact little noted by the public—the increasing tendency of big business to adopt carnival style press agent stunts.

Phineas T. Barnum, father of the circus-type school of promotion in America, today would rank as a piker in the field.

Even the fabulous Jim Moran now looms as an amateur. After too many years of being the first man in history to find a needle in a haystack, sell an icebox to an Eskimo, and hatch an ostrich egg by sitting on it himself.

Neither Barnum ("There's a sucker born every minute") nor Moran had the funds for off-beat promotions now available to a modern corporation.

To launch an old brand soap in a new pink color (and incidentally open the annual civic drive "for a cleaner New York"), Procter & Gamble donated 100,000 bars of the stuff to pave a block of Rockefeller Plaza.

The soap, enough to wash a family of four for 4.54 years, had a retail value of some $12,000. It was put down by 40 Hunter College girls, picked up after a

Leetonia WSCS Plans United Nations Observance

LEETONIA—W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. L. E. Fisher with Mrs. Harry Arnold and Mrs. Agnes Daugherty as hostesses.

A study class on "Paul's Letters to Local Churches" will be held each Thursday of October at the parsonage from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. Rev. Robert Ferguson will be the teacher.

Plans were discussed for United Nations Day to be held Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Mrs. Leo Reed gave a report on the district meeting which was held recently at East Palestine.

Mrs. Harold Cleckner had charge of the devotionals and Mrs. Merle Davis had the program. The hostesses served lunch.

THE FIRST P.T.A. meeting of the 1956-57 school year will be held Monday, Oct. 1 at 8:00 p.m. in the high school building.

Teachers will be introduced by the principals of the three schools. A report will be given on progress of the new school, and an explanation of the new class set up of junior and senior high school will be given. All parents and teachers are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vestal and family of Needham, Mass., are visiting this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Vestal.

The Leetonia—Washingtonville Kiwanis Club will meet Monday at 6:10 p.m. at the Methodist Church.

Jack Ripley will have charge of the program for Monday's meeting and has secured Leo McMurrin, elementary supervisor of Leetonia-Washingtonville School System for the speaker.

Secretary John L. Held is asking all members who are planning to attend the convention to get their reservations at once.

Burton, who has been a volunteer observer for 18 months, fills the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mrs. Laura Wonsler, who had supervised the Columbiana post since it was established two years ago. The assembly room in city hall was filled by the crowd in attendance.

In connection with the installation ceremony, awards were made 20 ground observers for hours of vigil up to 250, with a special award to Mrs. Wonsler, retiring supervisor, for 1,750 hours, conferred by Major Robert Medley of Canton Filter Center.

Air Force officials present in addition to Major Medley were Major Arthur Masterson of Columbus and Sgt. Harold Kelly of Canton. Others present included Ray Neidengrad of East Liverpool, Columbiana county coordinator, with a record of 2,500 hours, who was accompanied by his mother, from Miami Beach, Fla., filter center, and Theodore Dashbaugh, supervisor of Calcutta post.

FOUR CUBS were graduated in to scouting and six new bobcats were received into membership in Cub Pack 17, Boy Scouts, at the September pack meeting in the Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening, attended by 20 cubs and 21 parents.

Graduated into scouting were Jerry Wining, Jimmy Browning, Jimmy Longworth and Timmy Smith, and new members received, Jimmy Ward, Danny Yeager, John Snoke, Ronald Detwiler, David Strausbaugh and David Kyser. Theme of the program, conducted by Cubmaster Jack Lindsay, was "Living Things." Programs for the ensuing 12 months were passed out to parents.

Awards were: Duane Spiker, denner stripe, lion badge and one gold and two silver arrow points; Rickey Perrin, bar badge and one gold and one silver arrow point; Jimmy Leonard, wolf rank and one gold arrow point; Alfred Cunningham, one-year pin, and Gayl Gloss, two silver arrow points. Appreciation awards were made to Mrs. Donald Perrin and Mrs. Ray Spiker, retiring den mothers. The October theme will be "Adventures With Puppets," the boys to make puppets and put on puppet skits. The meeting, Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, will be a Halloween observance, cubs to wear masks, for which prizes will be awarded.

Mrs. Thelma Anderson will present a book review at a meeting of the W.S.C.S. in the Methodist Church at 8 p.m. next Thursday and there will be special music. Tea will be served by members of the Home Builders class. All women of the church will be welcome. Mothers night will be observed at the game between the Columbiana Clippers and Minerva at Firestone Park stadium at 7:45 today. Mothers of players, managers and cheerleaders will be given recognition and will have seats on the bench. vin's court against Robert Dutcher, 22, of 7th St., charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, was continued until 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday. Several witnesses had been heard at last night's hearing.

Aged Indian Shows Strength Man, Possibly 167, Swings At 4 People

NEW YORK (AP)—Javier Pereira, Colombian Indian who some people claim may be 167 years old, erupted like a pint-sized volcano Thursday. During a 20-minute news conference he swung at a press agent, a blonde, a photographer and a reporter.

Pereira appeared at the session in conjunction with a report by New York Hospital that he is a very old man and "possibly may be more than 150 years of age."

Four feet, four inches tall and weighing 82 pounds, Pereira kept things in an uproar until he told his interpreter: "I'm getting the hell out of here."

It all started amiably enough. Pereira accepted the suggestion that he sit on a sofa and pose with a blonde reporter. The blonde held his hand fervently and both were beaming until photographers' flash bulbs went off.

This was it! Pereira snapped to the girl in Spanish: "Don't steal the ring" (on his finger). He sent a hearty slap in her direction. A press agent stepped into the breach and got a sock. The Indian then leaped up and swung at a photographer. He took a final swing at a male reporter trying to quiet him down.

Commented the reporter: "Believe me, it hurt."

New York Hospital said in its report—issued after tests:

"Although medical science possesses at present no methods of determining the exact age of any adult, nonmedical evidence indicates that Mr. Pereira is indeed a very old man, and that possibly he may be more than 150 years of age."

"Under such circumstances, his physical condition and his diet are of any as well as medical interest. Examination has revealed him to be vigorous, alert and observing."

"His memory for recent events is excellent and he is able to recall with apparent vividness many events of his past life. While at the New York Hospital - Cornell Medical Center, he has shown a remarkable ability to adapt himself to new situations."

"His eyesight is impaired, but he is still able to find enjoyment from Westerns on television. He likes to listen to music and can dance in rhythm."

"His skin is like that of an old man, but shows no more of the effects of age than that of most men of 70."

Pereira has no teeth but does sport a complete crop of dark hair only interspersed with grey.

Despite his somewhat antisocial get-together with the press at the Hotel Biltmore, the hospital report said:

"He is gregarious and likes to meet people."

Stevenson To Hit Republicans Again On Rising Cost Of Living

ON TOUR WITH STEVENSON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson heads into Indiana and Wisconsin today after firing away at what he termed Republican "chorus line" campaign techniques.

The Democratic presidential nominee scheduled a midday speech at Monument Circle in Indianapolis. Aides said he planned to swat at the Eisenhower administration again on the cost of living, which he has declared is "higher today than it has ever been."

From Indianapolis Stevenson arranged to fly on to Milwaukee for a nationwide television address tonight.

The speech will be carried by CBS starting at 8:30 p.m., EDT.

Stevenson got a rip-roaring reception Thursday night in addressing a campaign rally in St. Louis, where he said the Soviet Union is "on schedule" with economy expansion plans "to pull level with America by 1965 and ahead by 1970."

Calling for campaign discussion of whether the United States economy "is expanding as fast as it should," Stevenson added:

"We must face squarely and responsibly the prospect that 20 years from now, if present rates of development continue, the basic balance of productive power in the world may well have swung away from the side of freedom."

At St. Louis Stevenson got by far the noisiest and most enthusiastic welcome of this eight-day campaign tour he started last Saturday.

Stevenson called his talk a "lecture". After hitting at GOP campaign procedure, he solemnly told a capacity crowd in the 3,300-seat Missouri Theater:

"The great cauldron of the world is now seething to a boil, while our Republican friends say all is well and don't bother to even look at the stove."

"We know that the deadly (nuclear) fallout can kill over an area from St. Louis to New York—and we are still in the infancy of hydrogen explosions. Scientists tell us that the entire human species can survive only just so much atomic conflict and not much, at that."

"But hasn't this catastrophic possibility, too, become almost a cliché? How can its horrendous import be felt in heart and imagination if, all the time, the skies are filling with Republican lullabies?"

Stevenson prefaced his criticism of Republican campaigning with an announcement his theme would be "bread and circuses"—based on "how the Roman emperors in their declining years tried to keep the uneasy populace satisfied and their minds off their troubles with food and games, gladiatorial combats and spectacles."

He got a laugh from the crowd by departing from his prepared text to say that presidential campaigns seem to him "more like a bull fight" than a contest of gladiators.

"It is my extreme delicacy," he added, "which prevents me from saying which party is the bull."

Stevenson's press secretary, Clayton Fritchey, told newsmen the candidate talked by telephone for 40 minutes Thursday night with his vice presidential running mate, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Kefauver was in Belleville, Ill., not far from St. Louis.

Kefauver told Stevenson, Fritchey said, that he has been "very much encouraged" everywhere he has campaigned regarding the outlook for the Democratic ticket in the Nov. 6 election.
